

College Countdown Transition Checklist

A checklist with timelines is a very useful tool for all students planning for postsecondary education. This checklist for special education students can also serve as an ongoing transition assessment. For any item addressed by the school system or outside agency, indicate the year(s) it was provided to the student on the line in front of the item.

Remember, the student and parents are not to be made responsible for providing any services or activities in transition planning. The school system is responsible for providing the services and activities deemed appropriate for a student which the school has the ability to provide. The school system is also responsible for providing referrals to appropriate outside agencies, but is not responsible for students or parents not taking advantage of the referral.
